Why it is important to write on this issue now

- The 2023 ALP Conference is over.
  - Now we are asking ALP politicians to make good on their commitments at the Conference.
  - PM Albanese describes his government as a government of action, one that wants to make a difference.
  - At the conference there was a commitment to a number of changes, but there are no timeframes at this stage. It's important that we demand swift action.

Background Information

In relation to refugees and people seeking asylum, two of the key commitments made at the Conference were:

1. That the Labor government would ...
    - make every effort to remove people seeking asylum from immigration detention centres through community detention as soon as possible.
    - grant bridging visas with work and study rights while people's claims for protection are assessed.
  2. That the Labor government would ...
    - ensure people seeking asylum have access to appropriate, independent, government- funded legal advice while working through their claims for protection.
    - Provide means-tested access to appropriate social services, including income, crisis housing, healthcare, mental health, education and English as a Second Language support during the assessment of protection claims.

Sample letter

Dear Ministers Giles

I have read with interest and some optimism a summary of commitments made regarding the treatment of refugees and people seeking asylum at the recent ALP National Conference.

While recognising that the implementation of these commitments will require time, I am concerned about unnecessary delays in implementing relatively simple changes, changes which would make the situation much more tolerable for people who are still awaiting determination of their claims after many years of uncertainty.

I am writing to ask that you to move quickly to make these long-awaited changes to:

- Grant work and study rights to all people on bridging visas, and those in lengthy appeals processes.
- Provide means-tested access to appropriate social services, including income, crisis housing, healthcare, mental health, education, and English as a Second Language support.

These changes will alleviate the fear of homelessness, and the indignity of begging for charity support.

Please take a stand for justice. The Labor Government must provide just and compassionate treatment of refugees and people who seek protection in Australia.

Yours sincerely
